Cover letter

Written free with every submission, drafted for the named editor, and sent to you for approval before it goes. One page, because the first paragraph and the declarations are the parts that get read.

- Opens with what the study found, with the effect size
- States why this journal, citing two of its own recent papers by name
- States what is new against the existing literature, plainly rather than as a claim
- Carries the declarations editors screen for first
- Confirms the work is original and not under consideration elsewhere

Suggested reviewers, conflict-screened

Name	Screening result
R1	Cleared. Publishes on the same outcome measure. No shared institution, no co-authorship in five years, no common funder.
R2	Cleared. Methodologist for the statistical approach used.
R3	Cleared. Different country and research group, which this journal asks for.

Name	Screening result
R4	Withdrawn before submission. Shared a grant with the senior author two years ago.
Opposed	Left blank. No genuine competing group, and an unjustified exclusion reads badly.

What happens next. We monitor status, answer editorial-office queries on your behalf, and send a courteous enquiry once the journal passes its own stated turnaround. You hear from us when something moves and when something needs you — not otherwise.
